F. Pricing

Each manufacturer of new vehicles must offer the following three methods of vehicle selection:

Method I will allow a member to order a vehicle from the manufacturer the same way any customer would order, except a fixed discount or fee over wholesale price will be guaranteed.

Method II will permit the member to select a vehicle from inventory on the dealer's lot or premise, or from the inventory of a nearby dealer. If the dealer makes a vehicle available from another dealer, the price must be the same and no additional delivery charge may be invoiced. The price must be a fixed discount or dollar amount over wholesale price; a member may use Method II at any time.

Method III purchasing will be effective during the time that a manufacturer is accepting fleet orders for new vehicles. Agency members may order a new vehicle with options added or deleted, as needed. Agency understands that manufacturers often place restrictions on fleet sales that limit the models and numbers that can be sold. Agency also understands that each participating Agency's respective local State Purchasing Office (SPO) normally secures excellent fleet prices that are often available to Governmental subdivisions. Agency recommends that fleet purchases be made using the SPO contracts, when available. If a member has a trade-in vehicle, the dealer will price the trade-in value according to a current pricing guide used as an industry standard, such as the Kelley Blue Book. The guide to be used will be identified in the proposal. The dealer may also use the Kelley Blue Book web site (www.kbb.com) that has prices back to 1980 models, or the Edmunds.com site (www.edmunds.com). For trade in prices on vehicles not listed in an industry-standard source, the dealer will describe the process used to determine a trade in value. Manufacturers who wish to participate in leasing must identify the leasing options currently available. No third party leasing will be permitted. Any third party leasing will be arranged by the member. Any financing necessary for the member will also be provided by others. Agency reserves the right to accept one or more manufacturer's products while rejecting others. Where applicable, prior to ordering any vehicle off of the Agency contract the participating dealer must forward final customer purchase order to participating Agency facilitating organization for approval, validation and documentation of sale. Non approved orders shall not be processed by manufacture or delivered by dealer. Orders proceeding without Agency validation are subject to contract use restrictions of participating dealer and member. The process of specific procurement procedures for each Agency is defined in detail in the ordering process of each state. The final process may vary between participating Agencies.
